Good morning children. Happy Rabindra Jayanti !! Let's pay our respect to the great man Kaviguru Rabindranath Tagore 🙏.

Now, read the following passage aloud, with proper pronunciation, punctuation and expression. Take the help of your parent, wherever necessary. Then write the passage on a separate sheet of paper, in cursive handwriting. Write the underlined words, separately, on that sheet. .Also write the meanings of those underlined words, taking help of the dictionary. Arrange the worksheets, datewise, in a file to be submitted on the opening day of the session.

Henry 's eyes were his most remarkable feature. They were not beautiful but his left eye was quite independent of his right. He could move one eye, without disturbing the other. Each eyeball, bulging out of his head, wobbled up and down, backward and forward. This frenzied movement gave Henry a horrible squint. And one look into Henry's frightful gaze was often enough to scare people into believing that chameleons are dangerous and poisonous reptiles.

Read the above given passage again carefully and answer the following questions. Copy the questions on a separate sheet of paper and answer them. Keep the paper in a file to be submitted on the opening day. DO NOT COPY THE PASSAGE FOR COMPREHENSION.

A. Answer the following questions.

1. What was Henry's most remarkable feature?
