- 1) Ha'penny was a twelve years old garrulous boy. He was from Bloemfontein.

2) We get to know from the passage that Ha'penny's mother worked in a white person's house. He had two brothers Richard and Dickie and two sisters Anna and Mina.

3) The narrator came to know that Ha'penny was a waif with no relatives. He was mischievous, uncontrollable and had eventually taken to pilfering at the market.

4) The letter book revealed that Ha'penny wrote regularly or rather others wrote for him till he could write himself to Mrs. Better Maarman, of 48 Vlak street, Bloemfontein but she never replied. On questioning by the narrator Ha'penny told perhaps she was sick.

5) When the narrator took Ha'penny out in a car he once asked him about his family but Ha'penny told him a story that was imaginative. He changed one single letter to make it safe from further interrogation as he was ashamed of being without a family.

6) Witty, mischievous, garrulous.

a) Maya Angelou reveals her grievances as her dreams have been dashed to the ground due to racial discrimination. Similarly the caged bird in captivity is so despondent at the thought of his dreams and aspiration for freedom that he screams out of irritation and frustration like someone having a nightmare.

b) The significance of another breeze' means another opportunity that may help the greedy, self-centered lazy free bird to enjoy his adventurous life without any effort or struggle.

c) The free bird firstly thinks about another breeze so that he can float down stream, dip his wings in the orange sun rays daring to claim the sky. Secondly he also thinks about the wind that blows to make the tree sigh. Thirdly he thinks of the fat worms on the lawn waiting to be eaten, at dawn.
