YOUNG EXPRESSIONS

Akira believes Courtesy is not merely about polite words. It is:

- To respect the feelings of others and also yourself.
- To practice kindness towards everyone, every day.
- To listen carefully to what the other person is saying.
- To be considerate to others and understand that their needs might be different from us.
- To never use strong words that may hurt others.

Here is now a story for you on being respectful....

SETTING THE SCENE

Polite Gestures will Always Impress

'Call Sheetal', said Aastha, as she called out to Sheetal's grandfather. When he ignored, Sheetal said angrily, 'Are you hard of hearing, grandfather?'

Sheetal's grandfather said sternly, 'Could you be a little more courteous, young lady?' Aastha immediately toned down her voice.

Aastha and Sheetal's neighbour, Kamlesh uncle, was getting married that day. The Mishra and the Gupta families were planning to attend the wedding together. Sheetal and Aastha were excited to see many of their friends from the neighbourhood. At the ceremony, Aastha, bumped into the person serving soft drinks. The tray fell down staining the carpet. The person cleaned up the area. Aastha didn't bother to apologise. She pretended as if nothing had happened.

At the food counter, Aastha stuffed her plate with all the delicacies, nibbled few bites, and then threw the plate in the bin. She plucked some flowers from the decoration. Sheetal chided her, 'That was rude.' Aastha did not care to respond.

Reaching home, Aastha's mother was angry. She said, 'Aastha, you have behaved arrogantly. You didn't say sorry when the drinks fell due to your carelessness, nor did you say a 'Thank you' when Kamlesh bhaiya's mother handed over the gift to you. You wasted food. You were rude towards Sheetal's grandfather. I am feeling terrible. You have disappointed me, Aastha.'

Aastha realised that being discourteous hurts people who love us. She promised her mother that she would never let her family down.

So, did you see how one's courteous behaviour can make others happy?
